

Mississippi's bridges are a key component in our transportation infrastructure, and Governor Musgrove is focused on insuring this infrastructure is safe, strong, and capable of handling commercial and public traffic. He is continuing to work with the State Aid Road Office and the Department of Transportation, as well as local governments, to make this happen.